FAMINE IN RUSSIA.

Thirteen Million People in Need of Relief.

MANY OF THEM ARE STARVING.

Notwithstanding the Great Distress Existing the Russian Government is Exporting Large Quantities of Grain to Foreign Countries—Ten Thousand Chinamen Starving in Vancouver's Along the Canadian Border.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 26.—A peculiar feature of the famine now raging is the large exportation of grain to foreign parts, while millions of Russians are starving. It appears that about 35,000,000 more pounds of rice have been exported this year than in 1890, notwithstanding the prohibition, which gave a vast stimulus to export during the few weeks before it took effect.

The number of persons in need of relief is conservatively estimated at 13,000,000. The diseases already prevailing in the famine-stricken provinces are creating almost as much alarm as the famine itself.

CHINAMEN STARVING.

Great Distress in Vancouver Along the Canadian Border.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Treasury Agent Scanlon today says he has received advice from his inspectors that are now watching the Canadian border to the effect that there are 10,000 Celestials in Vancouver and along the line of the Canadian Pacific railroad who are suffering for want of food.

Chinamen in unprecedented numbers are being landed at Vancouver, said Mr. Scanlon, "and they are unable to obtain employment or food. The vast number of arrivals, I believe, is the result of a notice spread among the Chinese by an influential Chinaman, who returned home, that it is very easy to get into the United States."

FROM HAWAII.

The Movements of Several United States Vessels.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—The steamship Australia arrived Saturday from Honolulu, three days ahead of time, owing to the proposed change in the steamship company's schedule.

The Hawaiian papers say that Queen Liliuokalani informally received United States Minister Stevens, Captain Kantz, of the United States steamship Pensacola, and Commander Bartlett, of the United States steamship Marion, on the 1st of this month. The Pensacola arrived at Honolulu Sept. 25, fifteen days from San Francisco. She was expected to remain at Honolulu several months. The Marion arrived there on the following day, nineteen days from the Behring sea, and after taking on coal and provisions, left for Yokohama to report to Admiral Belknap. The United States steamship Alert also arrived from the Behring sea, on the way to China, about Oct. 3, and stopped to coal before proceeding on her voyage.

The volcano Kilaeua is very active, and fissures which formed in the mountain side during one of the late flows are beginning to steam again. The equinoctial storm was the severest ever known in that district.

Chinamen from Canada.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Chief of Police Wright received a telegram Saturday from a deputy sheriff of Jefferson county announcing that he would be in Syracuse that afternoon in search of seven Chinamen who had crossed from Canada and were working toward this city. The deputy did not arrive, however, but the seven Chinamen were seen by a detective in the employ of the Central Hudson railroad as they alighted from a Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg train dressed as Americans. As yet none of the chinks have been apprehended.

Murder While Love-Making.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 26.—John Meinke, a painter living at St. Louis, yesterday shot and fatally wounded his cousin, Miss Sophie Broecker, while they were sitting in the parlor at the young lady's home. He had been making love to her and she did not encourage him. He also shot himself in the head, but the wound is not fatal. A letter was found in his pocket addressed to his mother and friends asking forgiveness.

Prisoners Escape from Jail.

PAULING, O., Oct. 26.—Dr. Goodwin, indicted for bigamy; Eck Evick, maiming, and Robert Timm and Charles McCarty, burglary, broke jail Saturday by sawing off the cell bars with a burglar saw. After gaining admission to the general apartment it required but a few minutes' work to saw the window bars off and gain their liberty. Sheriff Saylor has offered a reward of $200 for the apprehension of the escaped prisoners.

Fireman Loses a Leg.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 26.—A collision occurred at Avon, on the Erie, Saturday at 8 o'clock, between the passenger train which left this city at 6 o'clock and a freight train which was standing on the track. Fireman Samuel Robinson, of Elmira, lost his left leg and baggage man F. Bradley received a severe wound in the groin. The accident was caused by a misplaced switch.

Strike in a Steel Mill.

BELLAIRE, O., Oct. 26.—The machinists, tenders and helpers at the Bellaire steel plant are out on a strike for time and a half for Sunday work and night work. About 800 men are thrown out of employment.

THE CONFEDERATE FLAG.

Grand Army Men Will Be Forbidden to March Behind It.

ALBANY, Oct. 25.—General Palmer, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, was asked by a United Press reporter whether he had issued an order against Grand Army men parading in processions where Confederate flags were carried. He said:

"I have not as yet issued an order forbidding the posts of the Grand Army of the Republic to march in processions with organizations therein carrying the rebel flag. After careful consideration and meditation concerning the matter, which has aroused interest in many posts of the Grand Army, I have decided not to issue any order to that effect as yet, but I will do so immediately after the coming election. If I issued the order now, parties would claim that it was a campaign issue and the order was issued for that purpose. There are Democratic members of the Grand Army who are just as much incensed over the matter as Republican members, and I think that it is a shame that any member of the Grand Army of the Republic would parade under that rebel flag which we gave four of the best years of our life to wipe out of existence, and which we did. What we desire is to imprint upon the minds of the rising generation that the only flag is the stars and stripes, and that no other flag should be recognized whatever. When the war was ended all that we did was to send them back to their homes, saying to them: 'If you are loyal to the stars and stripes, there will be a fraternity among us.' They seemed to be loyal, and we have consented to a fraternity.

"We do not object to their erecting monuments to their brave generals or men, for heroes are heroes and nothing else can be made out of them. They fell fighting for a lost cause, which they helped to sustain, but failed. We also do not object to their building hospitals for their wounded, crippled, and sick, for they deserve all the care they can get. But we do object to have the rebel flag of the Confederacy flying in a country which has fought against, and defeated it, and more so against the Grand Army who fought so nobly to pull it down, to parade under it.

"Why, it is similar, if not as bad or worse than a band of anarchists parading through the streets with a red flag flying. We do not care for the generation which is going out of existence, for we have shown them, by fighting, that the United States flag is the only flag, but we do care for the rising generation. They should know of but one flag, and that one the stars and stripes."

THROUGH A BURNING TRESTLE.

A Conductor and Flagman Perish in the Wreck.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 26.—A train of thirteen cars loaded with coal was wrecked on the Columbus and Western railroad, near Goodwater, Saturday. As the train rounded a curve, within a few yards of Hatchett creek, the engineer saw the trestle approach to the bridge on fire. It was too late to stop, and he pulled the throttle wide open in an attempt to cross by sheer force of speed.

The engine and two cars got across safely, but the third car went down, nearly fifty feet, and the others followed. The rear car was the caboose, with Conductor Rice and Flagman Crawford on board. Both were killed, and their bodies burned with the car. Rice leaves a wife and two children in Columbus, Ga. Crawford was single, and also lived in Columbus. In his efforts to save the men who went down Engineer Henderix was severely burned.

METHODIST ANNIVERSARY.

Interesting Services in the First Methodist Church Built in America.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The 125th anniversary of Methodism in this country was celebrated in its original home—the First Methodist church ever built in America, known as the John Street chapel, situated in one of the oldest and busiest sections of the city. The morning service was conducted by Rev. William Gorman, who came from the birthplace of the church's first pastor—in Ireland.

The whole day was devoted to holding anniversary meetings, participated in by many of the delegates who have been in attendance at the ecumenical conference at Washington and hailing from all parts of the globe. The old clock which stands in the lecture room, and which was sent to the society by John Wesley 130 years ago, was one of the chief objects of interest to those present yesterday.

The Case to Be Investigated.

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex., Oct. 26.—Two of the men who were shot at midnight on Oct. 10 at Guardado de Arriba ranch so summarily by order of General Garcia, because of their alleged revolutionary proclivities, are now known to have been Juan Bazan and Jose Angel Vera, American citizens and voters in this county. John B. Richardson, American consul at Matamoras, Mex., has announced that he will make a thorough investigation of the killing, and if the men were American citizens he will take further legal steps.

A Chance for Miners.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 26.—John Costello, president of district No. 7, United Mine Workers, now on a strike, has received communications from two firms in the Hocking Valley (O.) district, asking him if he could send 500 of the striking miners to that valley to mine coal at regular union wages in addition to their own men. Action will be taken on the matter at once.

Put an End to His Troubles.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—Michael Mamie, who was in the county jail awaiting trial on a charge of bigamy, was found hanging from his cell door this morning, having used a towel in lieu of a rope, in order to put an end to his troubles.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

A Town in Switzerland Entirely Destroyed.

THOUSANDS ARE HOMELESS.

A Church, Hotel and Three Houses All That is Left of the Once Flourishing Town of Merlingen, in the Canton of Berne—Other Foreign News.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—A most disastrous fire has destroyed the flourishing town of Merlingen, in the canton of Berne, Switzerland. The fire started in a house and, owing to a prevailing high wind, gained rapid headway, spreading furiously through the entire town. Despite every effort building after building was caught and crumbled. All the population, except the children, aged and helpless, joined in fighting the flames, but the most heroic labor was in vain, and so swiftly did the fire leap from point to point that it was with the utmost difficulty that the workers avoided being caught in the fiery flood. Postoffice, town hall, railroad station, hotels, shops and houses went down like stacks of hay.

The flames curled around the church, and the devout Swissers made one more rally to save their venerated place of worship. Almost as if by a miracle the fire was borne by the gale in another direction, and the church escaped destruction. Besides the church, the Hotel Sauvage and three houses are all that is left standing. The poor weavers of the town saw all their property disappear. The wind carried the flames in an adjoining wood, where the fire gradually lost its fury and died out. More than 3,000 people are homeless.

Bismarck in the Reichstag.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—It is stated on the authority of an intimate friend of Bismarck that he will, in all probability, be a regular attendant at the coming session of the reichstag, but will only be present when subjects which he considers of vital interest are presented for discussion. The prince has not altered his views as to the menace held out by socialism to the institutions of Germany, and this he views as the most pressing issue of the time. He is also opposed to any policy which relaxes the protection heretofore given to the industrial and agricultural interests of the empire. Upon these subjects he will undoubtedly be heard, but it is not believed that he will go out of his way to criticize the emperor's personal course, however earnestly he may antagonize certain features of his policy.

Jack the Ripper in Berlin.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—The body of a woman, well known in the haunts of the disolute, was found lying on the floor of her room Sunday night frightfully mutilated. The police have offered 800 marks reward for the detection of her murderer. It is believed in police circles that the woman was a victim of Jack the Ripper of Whitechapel fame. Portions of the body of the murdered woman were carried away by the murderer. The victim was seen to enter the house with a stranger about 2 o'clock in the morning and shortly afterwards the man was seen to run away. Fifteen minutes later the woman was found dead lying on the floor dressed even to the matter of her gloves. The woman's name is Hedwig Nitsche, her residence in Holzmarkt at Gasse.

Mud in Irish Politics.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The Parnellites and anti-Parnellites held numerous meetings in Cork yesterday. The most singular incident of the day was the mud-pelting which John O'Connor, the Parnellite member of parliament, received at the instance of some priests. O'Connor was going about canvassing for Redmond, when he was followed by Canon O'Mahony and two curates, each with an open prayer book in his hand. The priests urged the people to eject O'Connor from their houses. Upon O'Connor's refusal to retire, he was pelted with mud. When O'Connor perceived that the excitement was growing he concluded to retire.

Disatisfied With British Rule.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A dispatch from Rangoon represents that affairs in Burma are in a threatening condition and that the military authorities are at a loss to fathom the extent of disaffection against British rule. General Sir Frederick Roberts arrived in Rangoon on Tuesday last to take command of the troops, and the European and Eurasian residents of Rangoon, capable of bearing arms, have all been urged to join the volunteer corps, so as to prepare for any attack on the city, or any outbreak of the Burmese. So far no serious encounters have occurred between the troops and the rebels.

France Will Come Well Represented.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Leading Americans here are satisfied that the government is sincerely anxious for a creditable exhibit of French industries at the world's fair, both because it will be to the material interest of France and in order to show respect and friendship toward the American republic, and it is believed that there will be an increasing interest in the subject among the French people as the fair draws near.

Crumbling Levees.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26.—A serious cave-in in the levee is creating much alarm. It is in front of the French market, and extends from the Harrison steamship wharf to a point below the lugger landing. The Harrison steamship and others are leading rapidly, as several of the wharfs appear likely to tumble into the river at any time. Measures for permanent relief have yet been adopted, all parties interested looking to temporary measures for the present.

SUFFOCATED BY GAS.

Two Women Meet an Untimely Death at Terre Haute, Ind.

TERRE HAUTE, Oct. 26.—There was a shocking double death at Stack's Chestnut Street hotel Saturday morning. Mrs. Sarah Prater, aged twenty-six, and Mrs. Lucy Jewell, aged twenty, both of Paris, Ills., came here on the 1 o'clock train Friday night, and went to Stack's hotel for a room. Both had separated from their husbands, and Mrs. Prater came here to keep house for her brother, James Deveres. They were shown to Room 10.

Saturday morning at 7 o'clock Deveres called for his sister, and the clerk knocked at the door to arouse them. Later, as they did not show signs of arising, Deveres went up and knocked without results. Then the clerk got a ladder, shoved in the transom, crawled into the room, and was horrified to find both women dead in bed. There was a strong odor of gas. The women lay as if asleep, and died evidently without a struggle. A portion of a lunch was found on a table near the bed, showing that they had eaten just before retiring.

At first it was supposed they had blown out the gas, but this was later disproved by the discovery as to the exact character of the burner, which was startling. It was found that the burner was defective, and that when the light was turned off gas still continued to escape. It was a burner without a stop catch to show when it was shut off, and the unfortunate women had, no doubt, turned off the gas until the light went out, and then retired. The flow of gas continued, however, and sent them into the sleep of death. The coroner is making an investigation. Mrs. Prater, one of the victims, has four children.

GREEN GOODS MEN ARRESTED.

Two of the Cleverest Operators in the Business Captured in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Frank Brooks, alias "Pretty Frank," and Terrance Murphy, alias "Poodle" Murphy, were arrested yesterday by Inspector Byrnes for being "green goods men." Both men are ex-convicts. Murphy was once arrested for having robbed ex-Secretary of the Navy Robeson of a gold watch in Philadelphia. The two men are probably the cleverest green goods operators in the business.

Some idea of the extent of their operations can be gained from the fact that their outfit contained forty-six large books filled with the names of past and prospective victims, together with a lot of circulars and newspaper clippings. The books contained the names of over 60,000 well-to-do persons in nearly every town and village in the country. About 6,000 letters and telegrams were found from various parts of the country, acknowledging the receipt of circulars and making appointments for meetings in this city. Inspector Byrnes estimates that at least $3,000 has been paid for postage stamps by the two men within a month. When the men were arrested they were in the act of addressing circulars.

SOMETHING WRONG.

A Judge Refuses to Try Suits Against a State Treasurer.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 26.—A sensation was created here Saturday by the sudden announcement by Judge Siebecker that he would not try the interest suits against the state treasurer, because of certain reasons, which he refuses to make public at this time. The inference is that the judge has been approached, but whether in the way of a straight bribe or through political channels is a matter of speculation.

Attorney General O'Connor is dumfounded, and is loud in his denunciation of the party or parties who have made it impossible for an upright judge to try the treasury suits. Judge Siebecker states that if he made known at this time his reason for withdrawing, it would be impossible to get a fair and impartial trial of the cases in the state of Wisconsin. He promises developments hereafter.

BONES OF MOUND BUILDERS

Dug from a Mound Near Medora, Ind. Other Relics Found.

MITCHELL, Ind., Oct. 26.—Human bones, supposed to belong to a representative of the prehistoric mound builders, have been recently dug up from the old mound known as the "Knoll," located on P. P. Hinderlinder's farm, near Medora. This mound is one of several which are located on a sandy terrace bordering on the flats, and has been partially worn away by years of cultivation. Many relics which have been found show that the mound is the work of the mound builders.

Numerous other mounds are found along the streams in this region. On the very top of the ridge, near Sparksville, 280 feet above the river, are still to be found the traces of four mounds in a sandy field that has long since been in cultivation. At different times human bones have been found in other mounds along the river.

USED A REVOLVER.

A Sensational Shooting Which Was Probably Caused by Jealousy.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Lillie Stevens, living five miles north of this city, returned home from a neighbor's at a late hour Saturday night, and through the window saw a man and woman in her house. She demanded admittance, which was refused, and she then fired at the couple through the window and mortally wounded Mrs. Margaret Ross.

The man in the house proved to be Leon Gresh, a well known man about town. Mrs. Stevens gave herself up, and her victim is at the hospital in a dying condition, the bullet having entered her abdomen. The wounded woman was a domestic in the household of Samuel Winkle, the father of Mrs. Stevens.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1891.

LOUISVILLE Democrats are to be commended for adopting the secret ballot for the approaching primaries. It is a wise move also, because there can be no kicking against a ticket chosen in that way.

The fall elections are drawing near, and the Pension Department is sending out for publication the long list of claims allowed daily. As soon as the elections are over these claims won't be given out for publication.

GRAND JURIES.

Judge Russell, of Bardstown, Decides the Old Law Still Holds Good.

Attorney General Hendricks decided last week that the provision of the new Constitution in reference to grand juries went into effect on the promulgation of that document, and that said juries should now be composed of only twelve men.

Hon. W. E. Russell, of Bardstown, Circuit Judge of the Eighteenth Judicial district, holds a different opinion. He ruled Saturday that the old law still holds good.

In his opinion he says: "Section 248 of the new Constitution declares that all grand juries should be composed of twelve members, and that nine may find an indictment. If it is self-operative at the time it was signed all grand juries in session at that time would be dissolved, and their work of no effect." As an instance of this he cited that when court was in session at Hodgenville his grand jury was impaneled four hours before the Constitution was signed, and had it gone into effect at that time, the grand jury would be dissolved and consequently he holds and will continue to hold that the old law stands until the Legislature shall make some enactment to govern it; and again all grand and petit juries are drawn in this State six months before they are empaneled, and should the law, as provided in the new Constitution, hold all this work would be no good except the court could call the first twelve and use them, but this would only be guessing at it, as there would be no law to guide him to do so, and the Judge will continue to hold to the old law until the Legislature shall take some action upon it.

In this district and in others the Judges agree with the Attorney General on the point in dispute.

River News.

If there isn't a rise before long some cities will be troubled with coal famines.

Captain C. M. Phister's new ferryboat, Laurence, passed up Friday night in tow of the Crown Hill en route to Gallipolis to receive her machinery. Says the Enquirer: "When finished she will be the most complete and best arranged ferryboat on the Ohio river. The hull is 90 feet long, 26 feet beam and 4 feet hold. She has two nicely furnished saloon cabins 28 feet long and 9 feet wide. The machinery is from the shops of Enos Hill & Co., of Gallipolis, and will consist of two engines, 10-inch cylinders and 3 1/2 foot stroke; one fire-box boiler, 17 feet long and 42 inches in diameter. She has what is called a boot-jack hull, with the wheel working in the recess, working a balance rudder forward of the wheel, which will make her handle as well as a side-wheel boat."

For the Farmer.

A new process for producing sugar from sorghum juice has been discovered, the merits of which are being tested by the experts of the National Department of Agriculture. Thus far it has been found that about 200 pounds of sugar can be obtained by this process from a ton of cane, and that the peculiar sorghum flavor, to which many object, is entirely removed from it. These results are obtained by treating the syrup with alcohol, the latter being recovered by distillation when the process is complete without material loss. In the use of five barrels of alcohol in one experiment, all but about one quart of alcohol was recovered. This sugar is nearly white and is strong, to the extent of 90 degrees in saccharine qualities. The aggregate sorghum molasses product in the South amounted at one time to several million gallons, and the acreage of this annual cane crop is still large, but should the experiments in progress prove that sugar of high grade can be made from sorghum at a profit in these days of low prices, an impetus will be given to the cultivation of sorghum cane, and another industry will be added to the many new ones that are diversifying the manufactures of the South.—Manufacturers' Record.

EDISON'S LATEST.

His New System of Electric Railways Something Similar to Mr. Haus's.

"The possibilities of electricity, especially with such a mind as that of Thomas A. Edison to develop them, seem to be practically limitless," says the Troy Press. "He has just practically perfected an invention which promises to crowd the trolley system of operating electric railway lines out of existence."

"The general principle of the invention is that the electric current passes down through one line of rail, is picked up by the car, passes through the motor beneath it, and goes out on the other side and returns through the other line of rails to the central power station."

"At the first thought the bare idea of this is paradoxical. The question will naturally occur why the electric current does not dissipate itself in the ground. To this no positive reason can be assigned except the bare statement that it does not. In general terms, the effect is accomplished by having the current one of low voltage or pressure. It is a well settled principle of electrical research that the higher the voltage the greater must be the insulation, and that the lower the voltage the less need of insulation. Mr. Edison's experiments have all been in this direction—that is to say, in the endeavor to construct a motor, sufficiently powerful to do the work, in which the voltage was reduced to so low a point that the natural tendency of the electric current to fly off to the ground and be dissipated would be overcome, and the passage through the motor to the opposite rail would be easier for the current than to pass through the ground to the central station."

"The plan of having a central rail for the return current was experimented on for a long time, but when the motor had been perfected so that it would work efficiently Mr. Edison found that he could dispense with the central rail and return the current directly to the station through the opposite rail."

"The experiments were conducted at the great laboratory at West Orange. Here an experimental track, nearly a quarter of a mile long, was constructed. It presented all the various kinds of difficulties that actual use would encounter. A part of it was laid on a very heavy grade of nearly 300 feet to the mile; there are several sharp curves in the road, and a portion of it runs through a sunken spot where the track could be flooded with water or covered with mud. In this way all the varying conditions of actual use are provided."

"The experiments have now been fully completed and the invention passes out of the first experimental stage into the second stage, its adaptation to practical work. The experiments have been made by Mr. Edison for the Edison General Electric Company, and until Mr. Edison has turned the invention over to that company for actual work, the minute details of the invention are of necessity withheld from the public. Enough, however, has been said to show the character of the invention. The voltage of the current employed will be, as has been said, very low, less than 100, while the average voltage of the overhead system is in excess of 500. From this it will be seen how great a revolution the new invention will effect in the whole matter of electric traction. Several prominent horse railroad systems have offered their lines to the Edison General Electric Company for the introduction of the invention, and it is probable that a selection, will be made in the near future and arrangements made to put the first practical experimental line in operation."

"The most remarkable feature of the invention is in the 'pick-ups' that take the current from one line of rails. A novel and ingenious mechanism has been so arranged that it will work with perfect certainty and effect through six inches of mud or slush or water."

An Evening With Humorists and Poets.

Professor T. M. Hawes, the talented elocutionist of Louisville, will give an entertainment at the Central Presbyterian Church next Friday night, Oct. 30th. Speaking of his appearance in that city the Memphis Appeal says: "His selections were varied in character, and well displayed the unusual versatility of his elocutionary talent. He succeeds equally in the humorous and pathetic, and glides from the sublime to the funny without an effort. His 'Drifting,' by Reade, had all the sweetness and grace of a Venetian day."

Admission: Adults, 35 cents; children under 12 years, 20 cents.

A Favorite Remedy.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a favorite during the winter months on account of its great success in the cure of colds. There is nothing that will loosen a severe cold so quickly, or as promptly relieve the lungs. Then it counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It is pleasant and safe to take, and fully worthy of its popularity. For sale by Power & Reynolds.

Frank I. Frayne, Jr.

Frank I. Frayne, Jr., is the youngest star now on the stage. He will appear here next Thursday night in "The Boy Ranger," which has been written especially to fit his versatile talents. His manager promises the best representation of frontier life ever seen in this city. He says: "The Boy Ranger" is unlike all other plays portraying Western life. The sensational hand-to-hand conflicts and blood-curdling scenes so common in border plays, have been entirely obliterated, and only the real, the exciting and comical incidents of every-day life on the plains are held up to nature. It will please you. It will suit you. It will interest you."

Void Order Granting Appeal.

In overruling a motion to dismiss the appeal in the case of Reigart versus the American Accident Company taken up from the Mason Circuit Court, the Court of Appeals said:

The lower court has no power to grant an appeal from a judgment subsequent to the term at which it was rendered, and an order granting an appeal entered at a subsequent term being void, there is no appeal which may be dismissed; and although the appellant has executed supersedeas bond and had supersedeas issued, the appellee is not entitled to damages, the bond not being valid as a statutory bond. Whether it is valid as a common law obligation is not determined.

Notice to Tax-payers.

A FARMER'S MISTAKE.

He Shoots Two of His Neighbors For Burglars—The Scene Above Aberdeen.

Marshall Harover, who lives about two miles above Aberdeen, shot two of his neighbors—Eben Davis and son Frank—Friday night about 10 o'clock.

Harover heard some burglars trying to enter his home at the hour named. He called to his tenant, a Mr. Botts, who lives near by, and the thieves beat a hasty retreat.

As soon as they left, Harover concluded to pursue and capture them. Telling the servant girl to ring the farm bell to call in his neighbors to aid in the pursuit, he hurriedly loaded an old musket.

As he stepped out of the door with gun in hand a few minutes later, he saw three men approaching. In the darkness he could not tell who they were, but concluded they were the thieves returning. He raised the gun and fired into the group when they were within five yards of him. One fell to the ground and another staggered. Harover then discovered that he had shot two of his neighbors—Eben Davis and son Frank.

The Davis family had been aroused by the ringing of the bell and were hastening to Harover's to learn the cause. The father received most of the charge, while the son was but slightly wounded. The younger son escaped unhurt. The shot took effect in the left arm and side of the father, and he lies at his home in a critical condition.

THE Journal of Dayton, O., says: "An appreciative audience of Dayton's most representative people greeted Mlle. Decca at Association Hall last Thursday evening. A most delightful hour of song was given by this versatile artist, and the continued applause and encores demanded testified the appreciation of the audience. The refinement, purity and perfect intonation of Mlle. Decca's soft upper tones is a marvel of the cultivation of the human voice. In this respect Mlle. Decca cannot be surpassed. Each selection held its own peculiar charm, and the interest was at its height at the close of the programme."

STOP KILLING QUAIL.

It Is Unlawful to Hunt Such Game Before Nov. 15th.

The prevailing impression is that the game law in this State expired Oct. 20th. A notice to that effect has been published and since the date named sportsmen have been shooting quail most every day. Those who have been hunting in Mason County will be surprised to learn that they have been violating the law and are liable to a fine of $10 for every partidge they have killed.

An examination of the acts of the last Legislature shows that a special act was passed, applicable only to Mason County, making it unlawful to kill quail in said county before November 15th and after January 1st. The act is entitled "An Act for the Protection of Game in Mason County." It is Chapter 395 and was approved March 22, 1890.

'Squire Collis, of Orangeburg, called the county authorities' attention to the new act this morning. He fined a party last week for violating the law.

A FACT!

We made the following proposition to a man who was about to visit Cincinnati and Louisville: If Webster's International Dictionary, with Noyes' No. 19 Stand could be bought for less than we could sell them to him, in either of the above cities, we would sell him one for one dollar less than their (Cincinnati and Louisville) price. He came back and bought our Dictionary and Stand for $13.50, and said it was one dollar and twenty-five cents cheaper than the best houses in the other cities would sell it to him for. CHASED BY MAD DOGS.

HAIRBREADTH ESCAPE OF A CLUB MAN AND HIS BEST GIRL.

A Yarn Which Goes to Prove That Barking Dogs Do Bite Sometimes—Still Some Savage Brutes Don't Waste Much Time in Barking When Out for Blood.

No one had spoken at the club for about an hour when a raconteur rose to the occasion. Laying aside his pipe with a look of regret he began:

"It's a popular saying that barking dogs don't bite. Like other popular sayings this is a fallacy and misleading. Barking dogs do not bite while they are barking, but there is only one species of canine that sneaks up to you and takes hold without saying a word. That is the Scotch collie, which inherits its habit of silent biting from a sheep nipping ancestry."

"Story! story!" called out the president.

"Story? 'God bless you! I have none to tell, sir,'" quoted the raconteur, remembering his classics; "this is only a memory of two dogs, accursed brutes, that lived with an unfriendly man on a hill, over which the postroad was laid. This man, who was a Cain among his fellows, kept two savage mastiffs, who not only barked but bit whenever it was possible. I was courting my first wife up there in the Cumberland mountains in British North America where this happened, and had to pass the house regularly. I drove a blooded mare that went like a bird, and the dogs were no match for her, but it was very annoying to have them follow me down the hill for a mile or more barking and yelping like demons. They would bark at the stage coaches and run long distances after them, but the passengers were safe inside and the driver and those on the outside were too high for them to reach. But I heard frequent stories of their attacking men, and being beaten off with sticks and stones. I asked why they were not killed and my answer was always the same, a shrug of the shoulders and the remark: 'You don't know the kind of man their owner is.' It seemed that he lived alone with his dogs, and people feared him so much they dare not go to him to complain or call in the provincial laws to help them."

A TERRIBLE CHASE.

"A crisis came, when one day I took my sweetheart out for a sleigh ride in a low pung belonging to her father, to which was harnessed my own sure and swift footed mare. It was a lovely day and we expected to make a safe and rapid descent of the mountain, a distance of ten or twelve miles. The air was crisp and cold, the sleighing fine, and we skimmed up the ascent and reached the landing before we knew we had started. There we were met by the dogs. I think it would have been less difficult to have gotten rid of a pair of wolves. I dare not give my mare her head going down that long, steep declivity on frozen snow, and the dogs, emboldened by the cold or maddened by repeated lashings from my whip, jumped at my companion and tore her cloak and her dress in mouthfuls. I clubbed with my whip and beat them on the head, but they did not even seem to feel my blows. Their great black and yellow frames quivered with ferocity. The hair on their backs stood up like manes; their eyeballs gleamed red and angry, and the noise they made was deafening and distracting."

"Oh! I exclaimed, 'why haven't I a pistol?'"

"Look in the box under the seat," cried my companion, whose face was blanched.

"I looked quickly, and found a rusty double barreled horse pistol of a make of forty years ago."

"Is it loaded?" I asked.

"Yes, but don't shoot. If you do that man will kill you!"

TWO SHOTS FIXED THEM.

"I remember thinking how like a woman it was to tell me where to find the pistol and then ask me not to shoot."

"I laid the reins loose on the mare's back and away she went like the wind, beyond my control now, and I knew she would never stop till she was a mile beyond the level ground at the foot of the hill."

"If the pung held together; if nothing made the mare swerve from the direct line; if, in fact—if Providence kept an eye on us, and the breeching didn't break, we might escape breaking our necks. I looked back and saw the dogs gaining on us, even at that mad gait—then I took aim and fired. Bang! Bang! There were two dark objects lying prone on the snowy road, and as quick as she could gather her feet under her my mare stopped in her tracks. She was trained to the use of a gun."

"But my companion urged me to hurry on, and we were soon down the incline and beyond the reach of recognition or pursuit, and strange to say no one but our two selves ever knew who killed those dogs. We heard the most marvelous accounts of the slaughter, the weapon varying from a Queen Anne ransket to a cannon, but dead they were as door nails, and their reign of terror over. I imagine their owner did not care to venture out to avenge their death. I drove boldly past the house every day, but was never molested or even suspected. But I often heard their unknown slayer praised and applauded for the deed which rid the neighborhood of their hateful presence."—Detroit Free Press.

"I feel constrained to tell you, Fred, that I have been engaged before this," she whispered.

"Don't mention it," he said gently; "I, too, have been jilted."—Harper's Bazar.

How Snakes Climb.

How do snakes climb? is a question which has been frequently asked. Many have thought that they accomplish the feat by wrapping themselves about the tree and following a spiral course upward. Several years ago a story, went the rounds of the papers to the effect that two woodchoppers, having felled a large oak tree several feet in diameter and very tall, found in its top two common blacksnakes.

After pondering for some time the men arrived at the conclusion that one snake had taken hold of the other's tail, and thus by co-operation they had been enabled to clasp the trunk, and by circling about it had ascended to the top.

Whatever probability may have attached to this conclusion has been dispelled by the observation of two young naturalists while hauling firewood from the forest.

A black snake, measuring perhaps a trifle over six feet, was found clinging to the side of a small tree, around which it could have wrapped itself nearly twice had it wished to do so. Instead of this the snake passed right and left at short distances, catching the folds along its under parts over and behind the slightly projecting roughnesses of bark.

As the snake rested only five or six feet off the ground one of the young men grasped its tail to test its climbing qualities, but so great was the force with which it pulled upward that it proved a difficult task to hold it. Finally, becoming annoyed at this ill treatment, the snake reached down threateningly at the offending hands, and losing its hold fell to the ground. It was borne home in triumph but was afterward returned uninjured to the forest.—Youth's Companion.

The Lady Factotum.

The "lady factotum" is what our English neighbors call those engaged in the vocation of "visiting housekeeper." This is an employment which has been highly recommended, and which a number of ladies in this country as well as in England have adopted. Such a person visits ladies who from ill health or some other reason are unable to perform their domestic duties. She oversees the servants, inspects the stores and possibly undertakes shopping, marketing and the writing of notes, and she performs other offices which are of too confidential and responsible a nature for the ordinary servant to undertake.

If she is a woman of energy, tact and health she can accomplish a great deal by visiting a number of families for about an hour a day. She may go so far as to employ assistants in marketing and shopping, whose work she is able to oversee with intelligence. She is paid for this work on even a better scale than a visiting governess, and if she is an able, efficient woman in the items of inspecting stores and furnishing food at down town prices, she can easily save a family half her liberal remuneration.

The institution of such a vocation is a great relief to many overburdened or ill or incapable housewives, and presents an excellent and lucrative field to women of efficiency and refinement. It is a place such as an elder sister might take, and such indeed as many elder and unmarried sisters do take for no remuneration beyond "love and affection."—New York Tribune.

"Tower of the Tongues."

Our story of the Tower of Babel is known in Chaldean and Armenian tradition as "The Story of the Tower of Tongues." It is one of the earliest recollections of the Tigro-Euphrates basin, and is related by Berosus in the following manner:

"The first inhabitants of the earth, glorying in their own strength and size, and despising the gods, undertook to raise a tower whose top should reach the skies. This tower they erected in the place where Babylon's ruins now lay thickly strewn over the ground. In erecting this monster roadway to heaven they toiled incessantly. But when it had approached near unto heaven the wind assisted the gods and overthrew the work upon its contrivers; and its ruins are said to be still at Babylon. And at about the same time the gods introduced a diversity of tongues among men, who till that time had all spoken the one language. The place in which they attempted to build the tower is now called Babylon, on account of the confusion of tongues, for confusion is by the Hebrews called bable."—St. Louis Republic.

Suicides in English Aristocracy.

Suicides among the aristocracy in England are rather numerous. Lord Congleton, who was Mr. Parnell's great-uncle, hanged himself in 1842. In the same year the Earl of Munster, one of the illegitimate sons of King William IV, shot himself in the head. In 1869 Lord Cloncarry, the last of his house, jumped from a window and broke his neck.

In 1873 the last Earl of De la Warr drowned himself, and in 1876 Lord Lytton, the insane brother-in-law of Gladstone, escaped from his keepers, threw himself off the staircase of his own house and was killed.

A story of suicide in which sentiment is mingled is that of Prince Baudouin, heir to the throne of Belgium. The youthful prince loved beneath his station, and finding that love could never be realized sought peace in the eternal silence of the grave.—Cincinnati Enquirer.
